

The staff spotlight is shining on Jake Wilson! Jake started with High Stakes Management in August and recently was promoted to field account manager.

Although born in Mexico, Jake moved to Farmington, MO at a young age, where he was raised. He attended Truman State University and graduated with a bachelor's degree in piano performance. Jake has since produced two jazz albums and is still passionate about pursuing his dream of establishing his own music business.

"I chose to work here because I wanted to grow my skill set in marketing and sales to become more business oriented," he noted. "I love the company culture and ability to make connections with a wide variety of people." Jake is a huge asset to our success at HSM. Each day, he leads by example by having a consistently positive attitude, giving 110 percent and always displaying growth.

Congratulations, Jake! We're excited to see you expand and lead your team.
